A Picturesque Tour Along The Rivers Ganges And Jumna, In India

Synopsis

This memoir chronicles a sparse population, structures shattered by time, and roving officials of the British Crown trying to comprehend the mysteries of the vast land of India with its divine dignity conversing with ruins of imposing architectural buildings. The author Lt Col. Forrest made colored drawings of ancient monuments on the spot to see the beauty of their inner form beyond what is seen by the bodily eye. Some facts given by Forrest have become obsolete, but the work as a whole summons the readers to a journey into creativity and to selfhood. A Picturesque Tour is an engrossing account of the mediaeval period of Indian history and the storm of attacks, plunders, dreadful massacres, internecine conflicts of the princes to grab power and the daring and active spirit of the English that inspired its merchants to establish direct trade with India leading to the British Raj. Contents: Foreword; Preface; Directions for Placing the Plates; Tour Along the Ganges and Jumna / History of India; Tour Along the Ganges and Jumna.

Prof. Lokesh Chandra is an internationally renowned scholar of Tibetan and Sino-Japanese Buddhism. Enormously prolific, he is the author of numerous important works, including critical editions of texts in Sanskrit, Tibetan, Mongolian and Chinese. Presently he is the president of Indian Council for Cultural Relations.

This book, written by Lieutenant-Colonel Forrest and first published on 1st July 1824, has a very long title namely, "A Picturesque Tour Along the Rivers Ganges and Jumna, in India: Consisting of Twenty-Four Highly Finished and Coloured Views, a Map, and Vignettes; From Original Drawings Made on the Spot; With Illustrations, Historical and Descriptive". In Foreword, Professor Lokesh Chandra mentions that Lt. Col. Forrest started his journey on 2nd December 1807 from Calcutta along with upstream of the Ganga and Yamuna rivers. Forrest stopped by various historically significant places of the present day Bengal, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh and Delhi. Historical towns and cities he visited during his long journey include Barrackpore, Katwa, Murshidabad, Rajmahal, Patna, Varanasi, Allahabad, Chunar, Lucknow, Kanpur, Etawah, Sikandra, Agra, Delhi and many more. He drew many colored drawings and illustrations mainly depicting natural surroundings of the iconic monuments, palaces, fortress, temples and mosques as well as the riverbanks. In this book, 24 fascinating color plates drawn by Forrest are included. The objects, which are presented in this book, had already been transformed into congested urban spaces in last 200 years. In this book, Forrest also made a narrative of socio-historical significance of the places and also the forgotten or lesser-known descendants of the history makers in medieval India. Through this book and its color plates, we get an essence of old charming existence of the time. This is a good read for the explorers travelling historical places in India, budding historians and collectors of rare books.
