Cynthia Martin has worked in comics and animation since 1983. Her credits include Star Wars, Spider-Man, and Wonder Woman for Marvel Comics and DC Comics, in addition to work as a storyboard artist for Sony Children's Entertainment and the Krislin Company. Cynthia's recent projects include an extensive series of graphic novels for Capstone Press and two issues of Blue Beetle for DC Comics. She also illustrated the book Alley of Shadows, published by Stone Arch Books. Brent Schoonover has worked as a freelance illustrator since graduating from the Minneapolis College of Art and Design in 2002. He has illustrated for companies such as General Mills, Best Buy, Target, and Continental Airlines. He has also worked on several graphic novels, including Horrorwood, published by Ape Entertainment in 2006, and several books by Capstone Press. Schoonover currently lives in St. Paul, Minnesota, with his wife, two cats, and one bulldog.

I am a teacher and my students absolutely love these books! I would give them 5 stars, but they are cheaply made and pages start falling out after only a small amount of use.

My 11 year old loves these books!

A good read! I recommend it highly!

Great!

Good value + timely delivery + quality product = satisfied customer.

Nathan Hale entered Yale College at the age of 14 and graduated three years later with high honors. He was teaching school in New London when the Revolutionary War began and after Lexington joined the 7th Connecticut Regiment of the Continental Army, attaining the rank of sergeant rather quickly. He was a captain when General Washington came looking for officers for intelligence gathering. He needed someone behind enemy lines feeding him information about troop movements. Good book, sad ending. Hale was only 21 when he was caught and executed.
