Julia Schonlau studied Fine Art at the Chelsea College of Art & Design in London. After graduating she worked for August Publishing and Redstone Press. To continue her studies with a Master in Communication Design, she moved to Berlin (where she currently resides) and enrolled at Kunsthochschule Weissenhof. Since 2006 she has published a yearly artist's pocket diary together with Anna Buehler. Julia is also a recognised illustrator whose work has been showcased in books by Pictoplasma, Rojo, Laurence King and IDN. Visit her website at 1000 Portrait Illustrations is a great reference book for those who like portraits or into portrait drawings. It's a 320-page paperback book that features more than 150 artists. The artworks are divided into three categories: realistic, experimental and imaginary. There's a good variety of styles and techniques, and work across different mediums. You see more leeway in the experimental and imaginary sections with the use of collage, stylistic rendering and forms of abstractions. Highly recommended. Also check out Illustration Now! Portraits for even more portraits. (There are more pictures of the book on my blog. Just check out my profile for the link.)

Excellent resource of illustrators creating portraits around the world. Nice variety of styles and media.

I was very pleased.

Loved this book. Nice to look at different approaches at drawing illustrative portraits from the simplest style to the more detailed and colorful. Very inspiring.

I'm a high school art teacher that focuses on the self. The subject matter suits the developmental needs of my demographic. Great resource for ideas!

This book has a huge selection of beautiful portraits and it's a real pleasure to peruse! The portraits are superb and the colors are great.
