Customer Reviews

"The bonds between more than 20 military and law enforcement dogs and their handlers are lovingly and proudly shown in this compact, fact- and photo-filled offering. [This book]... addresses a wide range of interests and age levels and will make readers want to go home and hug the doggie heroes in own their lives" -- Booklist "The photographs will make this highly appealing to dog lovers who will also find the brief text and short chapters easy to manage." -- Kirkus "This amazing book offers prose that is fast-paced and super-factual, but is written in a conversational style that keeps readers engaged to the fullest.... This is a National Geographic book, so the pictures live up to their brand." -- New York Journal of Books--

NANCY FURSTINGER has been speaking up for animals since she learned to talk, and she hasn't shut up yet. She is the author of many books on her favorite topic: animals! Nancy has been a feature writer for a daily newspaper, a managing editor of trade and consumer magazines, and an editor at two children's book publishing houses. She shares her home with big dogs and house rabbits (all rescued), and also volunteers and fosters pets for several animal organizations. This is her first book for National Geographic.

I really enjoyed reading this book about the wonderful hero dogs.

I have purchased just about every one of Nancy Furstinger's books. I recently purchased two of her latest books and Paws of Courage as one of them. I just love the way Nancy writes and Paws of Courage did not let me down. It was wonderful to read about all these amazing and fearless pooches as well as their handlers. These pups and handlers are true hero's in every sense of the word.

Wonderful book...great stories of the courage of our 4-legged friends

Wonderful book!

Starting with World War I, Nancy Furstinger takes readers on a journey through history and the incredible stories of service dogs. From combat, to search and rescue, to defending the home front, dogs have proven to be the perfect partners, as they are willing to risk their lives in order to protect and bring humans home safely. They also offer companionship and give crews positivity, during dark times. The beautiful pictures will delight every animal lover's heart and allow this to be a read, the whole family will enjoy. These courageous dogs deserve medals, honor and respect. Nancy Furstinger also provides information for how readers can get involved and help make a difference in these furry heroes' lives. Note: This review was originally posted on the Ariesgrl Book Reviews website.

After reading Nancy Furstinger's book "Mercy" ... I became an avid fan. She has the ability to write stories ... important stories with animals being the central characters ... that uplifts the reader, educates the reader and leaves the reader feeling their life just got a little bit better and richer. Her books will become standards for decades to come. For any parent that wants to raise their child or children to have large, compassionate, brave and tolerant hearts ... Nancy Furstinger's books should truly be on their reading list.

Ever since the beginning of time, dogs have been known as man's best friend. Over the years, our bond with canines has grown even stronger. Not only are dogs loyal and faithful pets, but their record of assisting mankind brands them as heroes. Aside from serving in the military, these furry volunteers have worked as seeing-eye dogs, lifeguards, and fire dogs. In most cases, they are a valuable asset to humans, especially their loyalty and keen ability to pick up scents. If you think that only people can be heroes, then think again. Read "Paws of Courage" to find out the names, breeds, and families of these courageous canines!
